Two items of note to newspaper readers:

Rep. Wayne Owens, of Utah, cited the "public's right to know" in the 22-16 House Judiciary Committee vote to release most of the 7,000 pages of testimony considered during impeachment hearings by the committee.

The U. S. Supreme Court set down a Florida law which for 61 years required Florida newspapers to give free space to political candidates to reply to editorial attacks. The Miami Herald, other dailies pressed the case while National Newspaper Association filed an "amicus curiae" brief supporting The Herald's position.

115-115-115

Alexander Solzhenitsyn, exiled Russian author, says President Nixon is entering negotiations with Russian leaders in a weakened position because of Watergate.

Several conservative senators took to the U. S. Senate floor to voice concern that the President might be compelled to grant concessions in renewed discussions on nuclear disarmament.

The Russian author favors incidentally an authoritarian government in Russia counter to the communist regime, but feels that a counter - revolution to get it would be so bloody and destructive to leave little for modern people to recoup.

He was expelled from Russia, for exposing Stalin police state encampments in "The Gulag Archipelogo". He now lives in Switzerland. He won the Nobel Prize in 1973.

His view of the effects of a counter-revolution in Russia is probably right. While the U.S. has survived a 13-year Vietnam involvement and wholesale destruction in some major cities and campus rioting, we have twice the economy. Despite ill effects of all this, we are able to sustain an economy while Russia's state-controlled economy would collapse with internal conflict.

This may be why he favors authoritarian alternative to the present Soviet regime. And remember, he was also a soldier during World War II in the Russian Army who despised the political scheme of things. A censored letter is said to have put him in detention camp at the end of World War II. He was also a mathematician and teacher before becoming a writer.

He is probably still too close to Soviet problems to view its workings at the diplomatic level.

But the Henry Kissinger touch may yet enable Nixon to hold substantive positions in Moscow even though an impeachment vote is imminent in Washington.

State To Honor Landowners

AUSTIN

Farmers and ranchers in Milam County whose families have held the same land since 1874 or before will be honored by the Texas Department of Agriculture's "Family Land Heritage Program", according to Commissioner John C. White.

The program, which will be initiated July 1, will "pay tribute to those families who have proved their respect for and dedication to the land," White said.

Applications and rules for the program may be obtained by writing Commissioner White, P. O. Box 12847 Austin 78711.

Any family who is certified by Judge O. B. Harden will qualify for the honor. An applicant need only show a continuous family relationship between the founder of the homestead and the present owner.

The land must have been in use for agriculture by the family since 1874 or before, must be at least 10 acres and producing $50 or more from agricultural products.

Those who do qualify by August 31 will be recognized in a special ceremony at the State Fair this year and short history of their family and land will be published in a land heritage directory. In addition, local recognition will be provided to the families for their long dedication to agriculture.

Band Director Plans Meeting For Beginners

All interested students and their parents will meet Monday, August 5 at 7 p.m. in the Yoe Band Hall concerning the beginner band program.

Any student interested in starting in either junior high or high school band should attend the meeting, band director Jerry Bartley said.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss which instrument will be best suited for the individual. Any beginners wishing to play the drums will take a rhythm and coordination test to determine who will qualify. Only four persons will be selected to play the precussion instruments.

Tuesday, August 6, parents are asked to come to the band hall to purchase an instrument for the starting student. Bledsoe Music Co. of Austin will handle the horn display.

Bartley said, "I have known this salesman for several years and have complete trust in his brands which I have used for many years. The brands of instruments which I will have him display are of top quality and parts are available for repair if needed later."

All instruments purchased at the display will be handled through a "rental-purchase" plan. The parent rents the horn for a trail period of three months. Then, if the students is progressing well, a continuing contract of 12 more payments will pay for the horn. The first three months rent from the trial period also applies to purchase of the horn.

The time of the come and go instrument drive will be from 6 to 10 p.m. Persons interested in any phase of the Cameron band program are invited to any one or both meetings August 5 at 7 p.m. and August 6 at 6 p.m.

REAP Signup To Begin

Signup for cost-sharing for practices available under the 1973 REAP program will begin at 8 a.m. July 1. Approvals will be issued on a "first come - first served" basis. Signup will last as long as funds are available. Milam County has approximately $50,000 available funds for this signup.

Milam 4-H'er On Tour

A Milam County 4-H'er will be among 132 Texas 4-H'ers and adult leaders participating in the 1974 National 4-H Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour which started June 25 and will end July 9.

Milam delegate is Mary Lee Graham of Thorndale and Mrs. Joy Graham. They will join more than 6,000 people from 42 states who will attend the annual affair at the 4-H Center in Washington, D. C. this summer.

The heritage tour will take four days and the Citizenship Short Course will follow June 30- July 6. Four more days of studying the American heritage enroute back to Dallas will conclude the trip, according to Lanny Bullard, tour coordinator and 4-H and youth specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Bullard said the group will visit Arlington National Cemetery, the Capitol and Library of Congress, memorials to great Americans, Mount Vernon, Williamsburg, the Museum of Atomic Energy and the Patton Museum at Fort Know, Kentucky.

DPS Investigates Two Accidents

Texas Highway Patrolman Milton Wright of Cameron investigated two accidents over the weekend with no serious injuries reported in spite of heavy damage to vehicles.

What he termed a "major" accident occurred at 4:45 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Highways 77 and 190 north of Cameron. A car driven by Harry Tag of Cameron traveling south on 77 was in collision with a car traveling east on 190 and driven by Freddie Gaines of Ft. Hood.

Another accident was reported two miles west of Milano at 6 p.m. Sunday, according to Wright.

Ira Jackson of Tyler, passenger in a car driven by Donald McKellar of Tyler was slightly injured when the car collided with a pickup truck driven by Willard Bell of Buffalo. No other injuries were reported.

'Earthwatch' Monitors Pollution

By Michael Malik

NAIROBI

Reuter - In a tall tower block, in the center of Nairobi a group of men are working to prevent man from destroying himself and his planet.

Occupying offices on 14 floors of the Jomo Kenyatta conference center which dominates every other building in the city, is headquarters of the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP) -- otherwise known as "Earthwatch."

Spawned at the Stockholm conference on the human environment two years ago this month, UNEP is just entering into its first action phase after organizing itself and considering its priorities.

With a budget of 18 million dollars for 1974, Executive Director Maurice Strong, Canadian oil millionaire in charge of the program, had drawn up a list of the most pressing problems and is sending UNEP task forces out into the field to get on with the job.

"Twenty years from now our implementation of the Earthwatch system will be looked at as one of the major accomplishments of tis era in human history," Strong has predicted.

"Earthwatch" specifically only refers to one of UNEP's project -- the global monitoring of pollution and environmental information which will form the basis for a giant system for exchanging information.

"Only if we know what is happening in the world and can put those who have problems in touch with those who know the answers will we even begin to tackle the world's environment problems," says a UNEP official.

Strong, a passionately dedicated and enthusiastic environmentalist, has drawn up a formidable list of UNEP's targets. They include halting the spread of deserts and aridity -- particularly typical in Africa at the moment -- protecting the seas from pollution, methods of non-hazardous pest control, a viable energy program for the developing world and registration and control of dangerous industrial waste -- including nuclear by products.

Strong believes that even this list is only a superficial start to the world's problem, for he says that UNEP's major task is to bring a fundamental change in human values -- the values which have brought the world face to face with its own destruction.

In April, Strong appointed Dr. Ishrat Hussain Usmani, former chairman of the Pakistian Atomic Energy Commission, to be his energy adviser and work out a sane energy policy for the developing world.

There are 1,000,000,000 people in the developing world wanting -- in fact needing for their basic well being -- the development of power, Dr. Usmani says . But if they start to develop fossil fuels -- coal, oil and natural gas -- they will merely be adding to the world's pollution problems.

So he is working on an advisory scheme for the development of what he describes as "Eco - power" based on solar energy, wind, water and fermentation.

"The alternative available at the present time for the industrialized nations is atomic power. We know we are taking a calculated risk in harnessing the atom but there are risks involved with fossil fuels.

The greatest long-term risk with fossil fuels is that by polluting the atmosphere with millions of tons of smoke a year mankind is creating what environmentalists call "the greenhouse effect" covering the world with a blanket and altering the climate. Carried to its ultimate it could cause such a shift in the planet's climate that the polar ice caps would melt and cause catastrophe.

At the moment the amount of atomic radiation being created by man is less than the natural dose everybody gets from cosmic rays, but Dr. Usmani warns that nobody knows the cumulative effect of small doses of radiation over long periods.

Crops Tour Well Attended

By Lloyd Albertson

Milam County's annual crops tour was held on Monday morning with between 75 and 100 area farmers, ranchers and businessmen making the tour, County Agent Bill McCutchen estimated.

Starting at the Cameron postoffice the approximately four hour trek ended at Joe Glaser's catfish farm near Buckholts. In between it included a half dozen stops at farms in widely separated parts of the county. Three of the crops where demonstrations were held were cotton, two were grain sorghum, and one was a grass variety.

First stop was at the Joe Mueck farm in the Salem area where several cotton varieties, including SP 37, under irrigation were demonstrated. Dr. Walter Walla made the explanations.

The tour group then cam back through Cameron and along Highway 77 to the Frank Kratochvil Farm at the intersection of FM 485, where they saw a weed and grass control demonstration in cotton with the use of herbicides. Dr. Dave N. Weaver, in charge of the demonstration, pointed out how Teflan and Caparol, usually in combination with a new experimental herbicide, worked well to control grass in some parts of the field and not so good in others, but generally was satisfactory.

The third demonstration for cotton was at Ernest Dodd's farm in the Maysfield bottom where a narrow row planting had been made. Rows were only 8 to 10 inches apart. Fred Elliot, in discussing this experiment, explained that it was expected to increase the cotton yield per acre.

Demonstration of a grass variety -- Kleingrass 75 -- was next on the tour. Anton Moraw, owner of the pasture, explained the advantages of the new grass both for cattle grazing and for hay.

The two demonstrations of grain sorghum were held at the Doyal Arnold farm and at the Wilburn Beckhusen farm in the Buckholts area. At the Arnold field Ben Spears discussed the advantages of several different hybrids of sorghum in their resistence to disease, and emphasised that early planting and growth would avoid many of the disease hazards. Much the same advice was given the tour group at Beckhusen's big farm where the final demonstration of sorghum varieties was held.

Following this stop, the tour group was invited to Joe Glaser's catfish farm and were guests at a catfish dinner at noon. The affair was courtesy of Joe Glaser, ECCO Seeds and Wilburn Beckhusen.

SOME 75 to 100 men gather at the Cameron post office for the annual county crops tour Monday which took in a number of farms with test crops and ended with a catfish dinner at Joe Glaser's at Buckholts.

About Some Tennis Courts...

Some 60 young tennis players are out for summer instruction and most of them played in an early - week tournament at Yoe Courts. This does not include adult players.

But more than a student tennis turnout is happening. Dr. Lewis Hilley, Mary Harden-Baylor's tennis coach and phys ed department chairman, is heading a group of MH-B's tennis players in Monday - Tuesday instruction for students and adults.

The Yoe Courts are literally covered with players from late afternoon to late evening and early to mid-morning. Adult players are coming out to take instruction from such singles players as MH-B's Robert Trogola, Texas Sectional champion in 1973 and one of two South Africans on the international squad of Italian, Finnish, South African and Australian players as well as Texans at Mary Hardin-Baylor.

Both male and female varsity players will be coming to provide instruction Mondays and Tuesdays at Yoe Courts. This spring, MH-B male players ran up a 16-2-1 season, including competition among Southwest Conference schools and a tough independent schedule in the South and Southwest.

The girls team headed by Australian, South African and Texas champions went undefeated. The top MH-B girl was finalist in the 1974 Texas sectionals and the top MH-B male singles player is on tour in England. He is a Finnish Davis Cupper.

Now anyone familiar with sports and with tennis would also recognize that Hilley came to MH-B a couple of years ago after establishing tennis records in the Southeast and winning an NCAA tennis championship at Lamar Tech University, Beaumont. He was one of the developers of Cliff Drysdale, one of the world's finest pro players, now resident pro at WCT's Lakeway.

Point is Cameron is arriving as a tennis town among people who know tennis nationally and internationally. And we have only 2-1/2 courts in this town and what are we going to do about it?

Flood Of Mexican Aliens Is Pouring Into Texas

A flood of Mexican aliens, estimated at more than a million a year, is pouring into Texas, according to a new Texas Good Neighbor Commission report.

More than half the illegal entrants cross the Rio Grande into Texas.

Good Neighbor Commission said the number of such entries is greater than the total number of immigrants who entered the U.S. legally from all the countries of the world.

Last year, the GNC noted, 575,000 deportable Mexican aliens were found in the U.S., and immigration officials figure one escapes for every one apprehended.

Sophisticated smuggling techniques aid the crossings.

Immigrations have a social and economic impact in virtually all regions, since the aliens move on to metropolitan areas all over the U.S. in search of better jobs and safety from arrests.

Top AFL-CIO officials promply called for tough new state laws making it an offense to hire illegal aliens, punishable by stiff fines or prison terms.

DEMOCRATS TO DELAY — Democrats are still in a dither about whether they should "recess" their September 17 state convention until September 19 to avoid a conflict with a high Jewish holy day.

A rules change to allow the delay will be aired at a special meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee in Austin July 16.

If hotel rooms can be made available September 19, SDEC will consider the change (to keep the convention from falling on Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year). But a three-fourth majority is necessary to order the rules amendment.

APPOINTMENTS — Clyde Johnson of Bulverde and San Antonio was named by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to the Texas Water Quality Board, succeeding the late Gordon Fulcher of Atlanta.

Briscoe also named E. Carl Dillard of Pearsall to the State Judicial Qualifications Commission. He reappointed five State Health Advisory Committee members and appointed as new Committee members Mrs. Edd Henard of Wellington, Mrs. Emma Nugent of Orange, Mrs. H.L. Long of Kilgore, Mrs. Marie Bynum of Longview, Rogers Wilson of Austin, W.W. Manley of Terrell, Rev. Claude Black of San Antonio, Domingo Pena of Corpus Christi, Ernest Coker Jr. of Conroe, Ronnie Boules of Pecos and Ed Baker of Arlington.

AG OPINIONS — Atty. Gen. John Hill held a newspaper's donating free space to an official's column when he is a candidate for reelection is not a compaign contribution under the law.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

* A county commissioner may not be paid for serving as appointed lawyer for an indigent defendant.

* Texas Water Development Board has a duty to approve or disapprove plans for proposed levees along any stream subject to floods or overflows.

* An appointed attorney who represents both an indigent criminal defendant in district court and a juvenile in juvenile court the same day may not receive more than one fee.

WELFARE ROLLS DECLINE — Fewer Texans got welfare benefits last year, the Department of Public Welfare reported.

The department's annual report showed Old Age Assistance was down from an average of 210,000 monthly in 1972 to 182,000 in 1973.

Aid to Families with Dependent Children declined from a peak of 121,588 in February 1973 to 118,681 families in July.

COURTS SPEAK — The State Supreme Court held unconstitutional a new state law regulating juke boxes and other coin-operated amusement machines.

Attorney General Hill called on the U.S. Supreme Court to accelerate a Texas case challenging impoundment of water pollution funds by President Nixon.

Austin, San Antonio and Lower Colorado River Authority called on the Third Court of Civil Appeals to require the Texas Railroad Commission to force Lo Vaca Gathering Company to live up to its gas supply contracts.

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a life sentence given a Dallas man for assault to murder a police officer.

A hearing was set in the Supreme Court for July 17 on whether two elderly sisters can get back $100,000 and 7,500 acres of land they gave to the Stephens County Museum, Inc.

The high court ordered the Dallas Court of Civil Appeals to take another look at adequacy of a $4,146 damage award given a Van Zandt County man who was bitten on the hand by a neighbor's hog.

OIL ALLOWABLE SET — The statewide oil allowable for July was fixed by the Railroad Commission, for the 28th straight month, a 100 per cent level.

Major crude oil buyers asked for 3,843,362 barrels of oil daily in July, a decrease of 36,087 from June.

Commission Chairman Jim Langdon pointed out that the U.S. still imports 1.5 billion barrels of crude annually — a "very long way" from self-sufficiency.

Exceptions to the 100 per cent order were East Texas and Kelly-Snyder fields which were restricted to 86 per cent production.

BEAUTIFICATION AWARDS MADE — Seven cities received Governor's Community Achievement Awards for outstanding community beautification projects during the last year.

Winning cities were Stanton (under 2,500); Eastland (2,501 — 5,000); Athens and Jacksonville (5,001 — 10,000); Lufkin (10,001 — 20,000); New Braunfels (20,001 — 60,000) and San Antonio (over 60,000).

Eighty-six communities submitted entries in the competition. Awards were made at the seventh annual meeting of the Beautify Texas Council here.

BUDGET HEARINGS START — Hearings of the 1976-77 state budget — the first to use the new zero-base system — are under way.

Some of the early requests by state agencies reviewed by the Legislative Budget Board and the governor's office are running almost twice current spending.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

As everybody knows, cattlemen are having a rough time right now because the price of cattle has dropped from 30 to 50 per cent in recent months while nearly everything else, on the wings of inflation, has continued to go up.

What I don't understand about this is why cattlemen don't read the newspapers.

If they did they'd find out how the leaders of the dairy industry have handled the problem. It's fairly simple. All you do is contribute heavily to practically everybody in Congress, whether he owns a milk cow or not or has any dairies in his district, and whatever legislation you want thereafter has easy sailing. So long as it flows, milk seems to be as good as oil.

But that's just part of it. After you get what you want you somehow let the word leak out that you've made all those contributions to all those Congressmen and higher-ups and, what do you know, everybody starts sending the money, back, thus leaving you in good financial shape to contribute to the next campaigns.

It's sort of a revolving fund and in recent weeks Congressmen have been returning dairy money faster than other government officials have been turning in jewels from foreign potentates. Everybody ought to clean out his vault and his conscience every once in a while.

Cattlemen ought to shake the sand out of their boots, get the dust out of their eyes, and catch on. Who knows, it might, instead of giving away atomic secrets to bring peace to the Middle East, have been getting the same results by giving those countries each a billion pounds of our surplus beef.

What does a country need with atomic secrets when its people might figure out with a walking plow.

Of course I understand all the Middle East Countries have signed agreements not for anything except peaceful purposes, but with paper as high as it is these days it could be even truer than ever that agreements sometimes aren't worth what they are written on.

Cattlemen ought to learn that when you're in trouble you don't wring your hands, you wring Congress'es.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Name In Vain

"I urge you to veto the welfare bill."

So said a telegram sent to the governor, supposedly from a concerned citizen by the name of Watson. But in fact, Watson had nothing to do with the telegram. It had been sent by a local manufacturing firm, which had simply picked his name out of the telephone book.

Watson later found out about the telegram, and filed a damage suit against the company "for taking my name in vain." And a court ruled that he did indeed have good grounds for complaint. The court said:

"(The company) appropriated, without the plaintiff's consent, his name, his personality, and whatever influence he may have possessed. This they had no right to do."

This case illustrates the growing recognition of the right of privacy as a legal doctrine. Often called "the right to be let alone," it has already been applied in a wide variety of situations.

Another example arose when an obstetrician, summoned to a woman's home to deliver her baby, brought a young man into the bedroom with him.

The woman assumed that the stranger was some sort of medical aide. Only afterward did she learn that he was merely a personal friend of the doctor. She sued for an intrusion on her privacy, and the court upheld her claim.

Of course, the right of privacy is not unlimited. It must be reconciled with other rights with which it may conflict. Thus:

A man who was mugged on a downtown street objected to the publicity that appeared in the local press. He argued in a court hearing that, as a private individual who had done no wrong, he was entitled to the shelter of the privacy doctrine.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

U.S. CHEESE GLUT ALARMS DAIRYMEN

Rep. David R. Obey (Wis.) " . . . There is only one word to describe what is happening in the dairy industry right now, and that is "turmoil."

"For one thing warehouses are bulging with excess cheese. In my district in Wisconsin, 14 small cheese factories—which buy milk from about 1,500 dairy farmers—were told one Friday that as of next Friday they would have no place to sell their cheese. . .

"Add to that the Nixon administration's ill-advised efforts to import cheese from abroad and you can picture the mess we are in. . .

"At the end of March there was about 350 million pounds of cheese in storage throughout the country. . . . In one case I understand a skating rink was rented to store barrels of cheese. . .

"It is painfully obvious too that we have got to curb the almost endless importation of cheese and other dairy products which have been coming into this country for the past year and a half. . . They are not produced or manufactured under the same strict sanitation standards which are required of our own farms and cheese plants. . .

"That double standard ought to be eliminated, and would be by a bill I introduced, with 60 colleagues, to require sanitation standards for foreign producers and manufacturers comparable to those we have in this country. Two days of hearings on the bill were held 2 weeks ago. . . "

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) " . . . I chaired hearings at the end of May on processing and retailing practices which increase the price or lower the quality of food to the consumer. . . The Federal Trade Commission has begun a wide-ranging study of the entire food marketing industry which we expect to follow closely. . . "

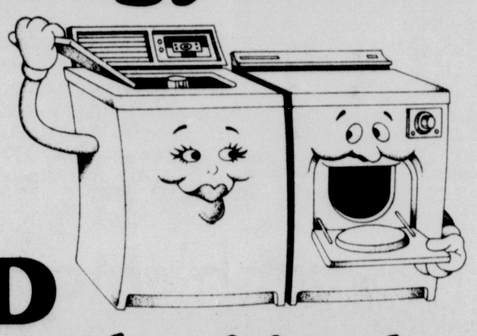
CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

How about cheese omelets for breakfast; cheese and egg sandwiches for lunch; and cheese souffle for dinner with cheese cake for dessert. It might even result in a cheese shortage, if the price was right.

Reducing plan for energy users



Plan D
How to save electricity when using washers and dryers

1. Choose proper wash cycle. ("Hot" setting isn't necessary with most modern fabrics.)
2. Use long wash cycle only with full laundry load.
3. If washer has water level control, choose level to match load size. (Saves hot water and energy used to heat it.)
4. Clean dryer's lint filter after each load to help dryer efficiency and reduce drying time.
5. Don't overdry clothes. Set timer according to garment's fiber content.
6. Sort clothes for drying by weight and texture of fabric to avoid extra run-time for 2 or 3 slow-dry items.
7. Vent dryer to outside to prevent indoor moisture build-up. Follow manufacturer's operating instructions carefully.

Conserve electricity and you help conserve one or more of the fuels needed to produce it: natural gas, coal and oil. Conserve fuels and you help assure that there will be enough to meet essential needs for electricity in the future.

When you pass a TP&L office, warehouse, generating plant or other facility, you'll see that we've turned off all non-essential lighting. And, in as many other ways as possible, TP&L is reducing its own uses of electricity.

If you would like additional information on conserving electricity, call or see the Customer Service Representative in the TP&L Office.

Consumer Report

"Trot on down" to the turkey market for this week's best buy, one authority says.

She's Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Turkey supplies this year are expected to be six per cent above 1973. Big birds are generally the best buy -- you can serve a family of five or six several different meals from a large turkey," the specialist noted.

Fresh fruit and vegetable items in greatest supply at lowest prices include oranges, bananas, cantaloupes watermelons, pineapples, cabbage, squash, sweet corn, okra, green beans, carrots, dry yellow onions, radishes and green onions, Mrs. Clyatt said.

Potatoes are still lower than normal supply, and prices remain relatively high, she said.

"At meat counters, look for best beef values on chuck roasts and staks, ground beef, round steak and roasts, and rump roasts.

"Pork values include smoked hams, picnic, shoulder roasts and steaks, and end-cut loin roasts and chops," the specialist reported.

The economy-quality egg value continues to be grade A, large-size eggs.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS

In choosing fruits and vegetables, handle them carefully. Rough handling causes spoilage. Consumers eventually pay for this when the retailer must sell at a price high enough to cover such loss.

FARM and CITY

ETC, ETC

By Johnny Watkins

I attended the Stiles Farm Foundation field day this week and learned something. It's not often that you go to a field day with a lot of good Blackland farmers that you don't learn a little bit. There are two schools of thought running rampant now. The first one came from a group of farmers from Hutto, which is located about 5-6 miles West of Taylor in that good smooth, rich dirt country where they don't bother to put up many fences to hamper turning on the turnrows. They really produce. The U. S. has only about 5% of its population producing food and fiber now and if they were all like those farmers from Hutto it would not need but 1% to get the same job done.

They are a bit worried about grain and cotton markets. The reason is that they have some grain sorghum and some cotton contracted but not all of it. So they are wondering what they are going to get for the remainder.

While visiting with a group of them at the field day I posed the question of how many and how much fertilizer were they going to use in 1975 crop year with it costing upwards of $200 a ton.

They had already talked it over. They said, "We're not going to fertilize and cut our costs in half and therefore our production in half and with just half production the price is going to go up to a reasonable figure and fertilizer will come down." Another one said, "We're going to clog up the pipelines of fertilizer, they think more of it than we do so we're going to let them keep it."

How about that for some farmer thinking. Some folks are going to run a little short of stuff to put on the table if farmers decide to cut production.

Now while I was there I ran into some farmers who run cattle for a fulltime living and they are called ranchers. I quizzed them as to what they thought about the Government putting up some $100 million dollars to buy some hamburger, particularly when a lot of the hamburger will have come from Australia, and all of the Government getting up some credit for cowmen to stay in business. I talked with about six of them and they were to the man of one startling opinion. Here's what they all said, but not in the same words:

"Leave us alone, don't mess with us, keep your hands off our cattle. We have been through drought, low prices, pestilence and Government interference and the worst of all is Government interference. Just simply don't try to help us."

How about individual, rugged, independent men, this country is still full of them. Frankly they make me real proud to be called a farmer, rancher, or just simply one that is associated with the best people in the world.

That's another ham in the smokehouse.

Greenhouse Tomato Growers To Meet

More than 200 greenhouse tomato producers from throughout the state are expected to participate in the 11th Annual Texas Greenhouse Tomato Conference July 8-9 at Texas A&M University.

The two-day program at the new Aggieland Inn will feature discussions on all the important phases of greenhouse tomato production, especially as they relate to "soilless culture." The Extension Service is sponsoring the conference along with the Texas Greenhouse Vegetable Growers Council.

Sidney Youngblood attended the 1974 Texas Junior Polled Hereford Field Day, June 20 at Dulick Farms near Morgan.

Activities of the field day were a judging contest, and demonstrations on tatooing and tagging cattle, selecting show heifers and evaluating cows by production.

Sidney's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Youngblood.

Dry Weather Hurting Crops

The crop situation through most of Milam County continued to deteriorate last week with continued hot-dry weather. The bulk of the grain sorghum crop was planted early enough to make a good crop prior to the drouth but some of it may be lost due to burning and lodging. Harvesting of some of the early maturing varieties is expected to start around July 1.

The cotton crop throughout the county has been looking good, but was beginning to cut out last week due to the continued drouth. Moisture is needed real soon on the cotton crop as it is beginning to throw off fruit and stop growing.

Red spider mites were reported from the Burlington and Ben Arnold areas last week with some producers spot spraying. Boll weevils are increasing all over the county with spraying necessary only in isolated areas. Cotton throughout most of the county is past the most critical fleahopper stage even though populations are increasing in most fields.

Pasture has also been deteriorating rapidly, but most producers aren't hurting for pasture as yet. Continued drouth would force movement of livestock and cause a disaster in an already hard pressed industry.

The only bright point in the agricultural situation last week was some strengthening in the swine market.

Spray Pecan Trees

Those homeowners and commercial producers that are fortunate enough to have a good pecan crop should make an application for the second generation pecan nut casebearer the last few days in June or first of July.

This application will in addition to controlling the casebearer, also control the black and yellow pecan aphids.

Homeowners should use either Malathion or Guthion with a fungicide such as Benlate or Dueter, Zinc Sulfate at 2 tbsp per gallon of solution should be included for control of pecan rosette.

Fewer Cows Producing More Milk

Texas dairymen are feeding fewer dairy cows and enjoying it more. But high feed costs continue to put a strain on their operations.

"Texas dairymen have reduced their herds by 8,000 cows this year by culling low producers, but production should still increase about one per cent," believes Dr. Randall Stelly, marketing economist for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"The state's dairy herd of 349,000 cows should show a production increase of about 30 million pounds."

With this increased production and the fact that milk prices to producers are the highest in history, total income from dairying should increase from $261 million last year to about $300 million in 1974, notes Stelly. Wholesale milk prices are averaging close to $10 per 100 pounds.

"Although prices to producers are up, it's far from a 'bed of roses' ", contends the economist. "Why? Because dairymen that have seen prices for their product increase 30 percent in the past year have also seen the price of the feed they need increase by 47 per cent. That's a net loss of 17 per cent any way you figure it."

1600 Texans Attend Stiles Field Day

THRALL

Approximately 1,600 people from throughout Texas--largest crowd ever to participate -- took part in the 12th annual Stiles Farm Foundation Field Day here June 18.

State Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale told the group that income for farmers continues to dip, despite increased production efforts by producers.

And farmers continue to have to wrestle with shortages of vital resources -- ranging from baling wire and fuel to fertilizer and equipment -- in order to increase production, only to see their income trend downward despite their best efforts, Kubiak added.

This trend will need to be reversed if producers are to continue in business, he emphasized.

Kubiak paid tribute to the Texas A&M University System Board of Directors, A&M officials and the staff of Stiles Farm Foundation for "tremendous progress and accomplishments" achieved at the unique model farm that was established in 1961 "for the advancement of agriculture and the benefit of the citizens of Texas."

Kubiak said that the late J. V. and H. A. Stiles, who established the Farm Foundation as a memorial to their father, James E. Stiles, were far-sighted individuals who "believed in the future of rural Texas and were anxious to improve the Blacklands and create greater opportunities for Farms and the rural communities that depend on agriculture."

Work established by Farm Manager Calvin Rinn on the 3,124 - acre farm was reviewed by Kubiak, who emphasized that a specific objective of Stiles Farm has been to demonstrate the value of research-proven practices through guidelines of the Blackland Income Growth (BIG) Program.

SCS NEWS

The Townsends, who own a ninety acre farm in the Griffin's Chappel Community, have recently completed shaping and sodding nine acres of critical eroded areas on their farm.

They are one of the first Taylor Soil and Water District Co-operators to complete this type erosion control practice through cost-share assistance under the 1974 Rural Environmental Conservation Program.

Gullied areas that once contributed sediment to downstream areas have now been shaped, smoothed, and established to Coastal bermudagrass. Land which was worth little in terms of forage production, now produces grass that can be utilized by livestock.

These gullies were deep and could not be crossed with regular farm equipment, but they are now easily crossed and maintained.

The Townsend's have completed other conservation practices on their farm and are working toward the goal of having a year round grazing program by using Coastal bermuda and Ermelo lovegrass.

Summer Tax Savings Outlined By Specialist

"The summer months offer farmers a chance to save on income tax by paying their children for farm work and by combining vacation and business trips."

This word comes from Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist in agribusiness management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

"A farmer can deduct wages he pays to his children and still claim them as dependents as long as he provides over half of their support. The wages must actually be paid for work performed. To establish a employer - employee relationship, definite jobs should be performed, regular hours should be established, and wages should be agreed upon and paid by check."

The support test is not hard to meet if the children are living at home or are in school, notes Hayenga. "As long as they earn less than $2,050, the children will not have to pay income tax. Also, dependent children working for parents to not have to pay social security taxes, but then they do not gain social security credits either."

A farmer can also deduct business related expenses from business - vacation trips as long as business is the primary purpose of the trip, points out the economist. To do this, records of activities and costs of the trip should be maintained. Before going on a major business-vacation trip, it may be worthwhile to check the Internal Revenue Service publication No. 463, "travel, Gift, and Entertainment Expenses," adds Hayenga.

Wheat Yield To Plummet

AUSTIN--Texas wheat production is expected to decrease from a record 98.6 million bushel yield in 1973 to 63 million bushels, a drop of 35.6 million bushels, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced.

White's projection was based on field studies of wheat conditions by Texas Department of Agriculture inspectors and U.S.D.A. statistical data.

Most of the decrease is due to the failure of the dryland wheat crop on the Texas High Plains. Growth of dryland wheat has been slow because of drought conditions throughout most of the area.

Nationally, winter wheat production is estimated 1.5 billion bushels, a five percent drop from May figures.

Field Day Set At Plantation

Beef cattle and forage production will receive major emphasis at a field day at the Texas A&M University Plantation July 11.

The plantation covers some 3,000 acres in Burleson County, with headquarters located on Farm Road 50, two miles south of the intersection of Farm Roads 50 and 60.

Field tours will get underway at 3:30 p.m. announces A. A. Melton, plantation manager and assistant professor with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Directional signs on Farm Road 50 will indicate the assembly point for the field day program.

Highlights will include discussions on beef cattle crossbreeding, grass varieties, hybrid Bermudagrasses, sorghum research, chemical weed control and cotton varieties. Major emphasis in the discussion on cotton varieites will be on insect resistance.

Field day visitors will also have an opportunity to see remote sensing equipment used by satellites to detect disease and insect infestations, points out Melton.

A special discussion on the characteristics of good stocker cattle will be given by two order buyers following the field tours and a barbecue.

In addition to the major topics of discussion, those attending the field day will also be able to observe and hear about the total agricultural research program being conducted at the plantation, adds Melton.

Screwworm Infestation Reported On Increase

AUSTIN--There were 590 confirmed screwworm infestations in Texas during May, an increase of 414 over the previous month, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported recently.

Most of the cases were in South Texas, though smaller numbers were reported in the Coastal Bend and the Hill Country.

Webb County reported 81 cases, the highest in the state. Nueces and Aransas were the only South Texas counties without a confirmed case in May.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Screwworm Eradication Program in Mission estimated that 75 percent of the 8,913 screwworm cases in Texas last year were in South Texas. Eighty to 90 percent of these were from tick-readied bites in the ears of cattle.

According to entomologists, the tick is already appearing in extraordinarily large numbers and heavier infestations are expected in July and August.

Ticks feed on the ears of large animals and drop to the ground, leaving a large wound ready for the screwworm fly. The best protection to slow or stop tick and screwworm injury is to spray or dip regularly. Smears applied directly to the ears are also helpful.

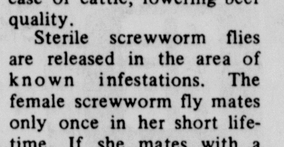
Female screwworm flies deposit their eggs on the edges of wounds. Emerging larvae enter the wound to feed on live flesh, often creating illness and, in the case of cattle, lowering beef quality.

Sterile screwworm flies are released in the area of known infestations. The female screwworm fly mates only once in her short lifetime. If she mates with a sterile male, any eggs she produces will not hatch, thus ending the life cycle.

White recommended that cattle owners examine their cattle more closely. He emphasized the importance of controlling the pest for health purposes and to maintain the high quality of Texas beef.

Personnel of the Screwworm Eradication Program urged that samples from the center of every larvae-infected wound be submitted to their headquarters, P.O Box 969, Mission, Tex. 78572.

Larvae should be removed from the wound and killed. Those dropped on the ground alive pupate and continue their life cycle, infesting new animals within three weeks.



Moslem legend holds that Abraham was at 15 months, the height of a 15-year-old.

Cotton Going Up

AUSTIN--The total cost of producing cotton in 1974 could be at least 35 percent higher than 1973 averages, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has reported.

White also said that the average cost of producing one pound of lint cotton may reach 37 cents, up from the 28 cent average of 1964-72.

White said that costs of motor supplies and fertilizer could soar to more than 40 percent over 1973 averages.

Costs of other production items -- interest, taxes and wage rates -- increased nine percent from 1972 to 1973.

Watermelon Weather Hits Texas

AUSTIN--Thump. Thump. Thump.

It's watermelon pickin' and eatin' time in Texas, and, as any old-timer will tell you, a good thump is one way to find the best melon in the lot.

According to Agriculture Commissioner John C White, however, there are other -- and possibly better -- ways to judge a ripe, juicy melon.

"The best one is to cut a plug so the meat can be seen and tasted," White said. "But your neighborhood grocer or supermarket manager may not understand when you start cutting away at his melons before you buy. So here are a few other tips to go by."

Though nothing offers proof positive, several outward signs are a guide to ripeness and quality. These include a firm, symmetrical shape, fresh attractive appearance and good color. Color will vary from a deep solid green to gray, depending on the variety.

Mature melons have a velvety bloom or dull rather than shiny surface. The underside is yellowish.

White noted that Texas is first in the nation in watermelon production. This year, however, the yield is expected to be down because planting dropped 10,000 acres and the growing season was dry. Growers expect quality to be high.

Though recent predictions indicated melons will be smaller and prices higher this season, the early harvest has not borne them out. Charleston Grays and Stripes or Jubilees from South Texas have been in the 16-28 pound range and prices per hundred pounds have been $3.50-$4.50.

In China, the first few days of the new year have been the only days celebrated as universal holidays.

Home Eye Test For Preschooler

COLLEGE STATION

One in every 20 preschool age children in the U. S. has a vision problem. But help is now available for these children, according to one authority.

Dr. Barbara Sears, health education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reported the Home Eye Test Kit which parents can use to do a vision screening of their preschoolers at home is now available.

The kit is free from the Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 3617 Fannin St., Houston, Tex. 77004. and is also available in Spanish.

"Any vision screening only indicates that a child may have a visual defect," Dr. Sears said.

"Vision screening is not diagnostic and does not take the place of a professional eye examination," the specialist said.

But the Home Eye Test Kit is the chance to locate children who have never had their vision tested, who show no outward signs of eye or vision abnormality, but will show readily in a screening that they are near-sighted, that they are using only one eye effectively, or that they can 'read' the chart with each eye separately but not with both eyes together," the specialist explained.

The Home Eye Test Kit includes a scale version of the E chart, directions for training the child to take the test, for giving the test, and for interpreting test results.

A report form, to be returned to the Society, asks the parent whether the child passed the test, and if not, whether an appointment has been made for an eye examination, and with whom.

"We hope this will be an inducement for parents to obtain early visual care for their young children," Dr. Sears said.

Fikes Recieves Texaco Plant Award

C. E. Fikes, Texaco consignee in Cameron, was recently awarded the Texaco Bulk Plant Award. The award was made in recognition of his efforts in attaining the Texaco bulk plant prestige standards.

Making the presentation was R. E. Metzler, assistant district manager Texaco Houston west district.

Some people once believed that butter was yellow because the cows that produced it ate yellow plants, called buttercups!

Safety List Offered For Mobile Home

Potential mobile home buyers should be particularly aware of safety considerations, one housing and home furnishings specialist pointed out this week.

Patricia Bradshaw, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, suggested this checklist for mobile home safety:

-- Are there at least two outside doors, preferably on opposite sides of the unit in case of overturn?

-- Does each bedroom have a window large enough for escape in an emergency?

-- Do you have to pass the furance to escape from any bedroom?

-- Are there different floor levels which could be dangerous in darkness?

-- Does the unit have built in anchorage straps for anchoring against wind damage?

"Safety should be the most vital factor when choosing a mobile home," Miss Bradshaw concluded.

DOWNTOWN CAMERON

Let's Vote On It!

Gratitude -- Where, oh! Where has sentiment and gratitude gone? The first public free school in Cameron was opened in 1891. We believe Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Yoe and Mr. Oxsheer Smith were the greatest benefactors our public schools have ever known. It is our feeling we have given these honored citizens of the past a slap in the face. It is further our thinking that some of the action taken by our school board in a called meeting Monday, June 10 may have an adverse influence on a youngster along the way. Let all of us hope and pray the school board will not change the name of the city of Cameron or offer it for sale.

Please let us suggest that if the board feels certain changes should be made the board call an election and let the people make the decision. If a majority of the citizens and patrons approve such changes then I will surely accept the will of the majority.

Respectfully submitted,
C. R. (Roy) Law

State Seeks Clerical Workers

People with stenographic and/or typing skills and all levels of experience are urgently needed to fill numerous immediate openings in the state agencies served by the Merit System Council.1

Russell E. Shrader, MSC Director, announced that this statewide need for workers with clerical skills will be filled by candidates from the Merit System registers, which are built up from open-competitive written and performance examinations.

Among the many benefits offered their employees by these agencies are equal opportunity hiring and career advancement, as well as the one-step pay increase for all employees slated to take effect September 1, 1974.

This pay increase will alter the entrance salary for Clerk-Typist from $424 to $432 per month, and will change the beginning pay for Secretary 1 and Stenographer 1 from $453, to $468.

For Clerk-Typist I, requirements are high school graduation or GED equivalency and typing at 35 words per minute, Stenographer I and Secretary I require high school graduation or GED, typing at 40 words per minute and dictation at 80.

You don't have to be a scientist to realize that these tons of rocks are held in check by perfect balance. You wouldn't want to be sitting nearby if they weren't!

This kind of balance results in inertia. There is another state of being that results in sound initiative and worthwhile action.

You've heard men speak of a balanced background, a balanced education, a balanced life. They're usually referring to the fact that no important element has been ignored or neglected.

Religious sincerity is one necessity for this kind of balance. It cannot take the place of any of the other essentials. Nor can anything else take its place.

The Church is constantly helping us gain—and keep—our balance!

Patman Votes For RTW Law

Senator Bill Patman of Ganado cast his vote with the majority in favor of inclusion of the right-to-work law in the new Texas Constitution when the matter came before the convention recently.

At the request of its sponsors, the proposal was changed to an alternative issue for the voters to consider when they vote on whether to accept or reject the entire constitution.

In this manner, a jamority of voters approving of the right-to-work provision in the constitution will cause its inclusion as part of the old 1876 Constitution,even if the new constitution is defeated at the polls.

The same majority approval -- coupled with majority approval of the new constitution -- would cause inclusion of the provision in the new constitution. Voter disapproval of the provision would result in its exclusion, even if the new constitution is approved.

The date for the election on the new constitution has not yet been set,

Students Learn To Detect Forgeries

University of Texas students are learning to pinpoint the date of ancient manuscripts and detect book forgeries.

In a course on recent trends in analytical bibliography, students are being trained to use beta radiography techniques, instruction not offered in any other U. S. university.

The technique captures on film the image of watermarks embedded in the paper of book pages. The previously "hidden" watermarks reveal details in the construction of paper molds that allow bibliographers to identify and date the time of production.

HEW Organizes Care Division For Nursing Homes

A new division, called Long-Term Care Standards (LTCS) has been organized in the Regional office of the Department of Health , Education and Welfare.

Purpose of the new division, directed by Mary Lou Lane, is to ensure that safety and health care standards are being met by nursing homes and other institutions participating in Medicare and Medicaid programs.

The division is responsible for seeing that federal standares for skilled nursing faciilities (SNF's) and intermediate care facilities (ICF's) are consistently applied and enforced in the 1,200 long-term care facilities in HEW's southwest region. Similar divisons are being organized in the nine other HEW regions around the country.

New regulations announced in Washington earlier this yer place emphasis on the health and safety of patients, while enabling HEW and state governments to enforce standards more effectively.

The regulations, for the first time, set common standards for certification of long - term care facilities which participate in either Medicare or Medicaid programs.

Tractor Pull Scheduled At HOT Fair

On Saturday afternoon at 5 p.m. approximately 50 tractors will be tuning up for the first tractor pull ever held at the Heart O' Texas Fairground.

This pull is being sponsored by the Central Texas Tractor Club, a local group of young farmers whose sport is pulling a weighted sled.

The pull is supervised by the Southwest Tractor Pullers Association, who will also furnish the sled and track equipment.

"Each afternoon the tractors will be divided into three weight classes. They will then compete with each other to see which one can pull the weighted sled the furthest distance down the specially made track. We will have two classes for stock tractors each night, plus one open class for the big ones," says Jerry Willis, a Grandview dairyman who is president of the organization.

A 275' long track was constructed on the north edge of the fair grounds, and a large group of bleachers were removed from the fair barns for the spectators. The event will open each day with two girls posting the colors from garden tractors.

Tickets to the event are $2.50 and may be obtained from your local implement dealer. Children under twelve are admitted free.

BIG DIRON::

Diron Talbert, one of the NFL's top defensive tackles for the Washington Redskins, has been an instructor at Roman Gabriel's Teen-Age football camp the past week at Grand Junction high in the Colorado Rockies . . . Don't be surprised if Brother Don Talbert, the 6-5, 270 pound offensive right - tackle just retired from the Dallas Cowboys, goes back to the wars with Chicago of the WFL . . . making like Dick Peebles, we'd like to ask, "Whatever happened to Jeff (The Jet) Bergeron." You remember Bergeron, the Pt. Neches ghost whom Houston U. claimed would lead the Cougars to a National title: Before leaving school.

Want to do some interesting research? Check the NCAA for those college football coaches whose programs have been placed on probation for illegal recruiting and you will find a surprising number of former Duffy Daughtery - Michigan State men . . . Darrell Royal tells writers, "do not believe those reports that Roosevelt Leaks (UT's All-America fullback down with ligament damage) will make it back by fall." Then Rosey finds himself a sports writer and says, "Yes, I will, too!" Royal cannot lose either way.

Before all the guessing starts, who but Emory Bellard's powerful, fast, experienced and dedicated Texas Aggies should be favored to win the 1974 Southwest Conference football championship? As Bellard, himself, eagerly points out. the Maroon-clad Aggies return 20 of 22 starters, an incredible 11 on a defensive team which had the loops's best record at stopping other teams. With potential All-American ball-carriers like Bubba Bean and Skip Walker operating behind Spectacula Soph; Quarterback David Walker, Bellard could be poised to turn an Oklahoma - like bombshell loose on the Southwest.

Texas Deer Hunters Bring Home Bacon

AUSTIN

Hunters in Texas brought home more than $16.5 million worth of venison during the 1973-74 hunting season, according to statistics from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Hunters killed 10,260 mule deer and 366,033 white - tailed deer.

The average mule deer weighed 90 pounds when it was field dressed and produced an estimated 45 pounds of boneless meat.

White-tailed bucks averaged 78.5 pounds field dressed and produced approximately 39 pounds of boneless meat, and white-tailed does averaged 56.6 pounds field dressed and produced about 28 pounds of boneless meat.

Based on the price of ground chuck beef ($1.20 per pound) at the time of the hunting season, the mule deer meat was worth $554,040 and the white-tailed deer meat was worth $16,013,738.

The department estimates there were 50,000 bow hunters and 560,000 firearms hunters during the last deer season. The estimated mule and white-tailed deer population during the hunt was 3,622,000.

Home Gardeners Can Stretch Soil Moisture

Hot, dry summer weather is here and that means following certain practices to "stretch" the moisture available for your lawn and garden.

"Wise use of available moisture helps keep you lawn and garden plants growing and healthy while at the same time reducing the amount of irrigation water required," points out Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To start with, Janne suggests a good mulch at least two inches deep around flowers, shrubs and other plants. This reduces evaporation loss from the soil surface, lowers the soil temperature, reduces weed growth and cuts down on soil cultivation. Shredded pine bark, pine straw, wood chips, chopped wheat or oat straw or other organic matter is good for mulching.

When watering, the horticulturist recommends soaking the soil to a depth of 6 to 10 inches. Of course, where the soil surface is sloping, watering should be reduced to avoid excessive runoff.

"Deep watering encourages deep root penetration and provides a greater reservoir of moisture for plants. This enables plants to withstand dry weather better than when waterings are light and frequent. After a thorough soaking of the soil, watering can be delayed until plants begin to wilt."

Janne advises applying fertilizer, insecticides or fungicides to plants only when there is moisture in the soil. Severe foliage burn can occur if these materials are applied when plants are under water stress conditions. Fertilize lawns when needed since a well-fertilized lawn will use water more efficiently and will require less water to keep it alive.

Raising the cutting height of your lawn mower one-fourth to one-half inch will also reduce the water needs of your lawn.

"Do your yard work early in the morning or late in the afternoon," suggests Janne. "You will enjoy it more and your plants will also benefit."

SCOOP! ICE CREAM IS BACK!

Your very own homemade ice cream for the holiday celebration at the picnic, or other family get-together, can be fun to make and great to eat. Homemade ice cream can be as varied as you choose; just let your imagination dictate.

Start with a basic vanilla recipe, lots of imaginative additions, a good ice cream freezer, and you're all set. Most recipes will taste oversweet before freezing Use the best, richest ingredients you can afford; the taste will be worth it.

Freeze the mixture in a churn-type freezer and allow it to cure or harden for about an hour. To cure, remove the dasher and cover the can with plastic wrap and the can cover. Drain half of the water from the tub and pack with crushed ice and salt around and over the can. Cover with several thicknesses of newspaper for insulation. Don't hesitate to take the curing ice cream to the beach, park or picnic. When properly packed in ice and salt, ice cream should stay firm for four to six hours. "Make it, then take it!"

Here is my favorite recipe for quick and easy basic vanilla. If you want recipes for different flavors of ice cream, please write to me.

OLD FASHIONED VANILLA ICE CREAM

6 eggs
2 cups sugar
2 tbsp. vanilla extract
1 quart half-n-half or whipping cream
1 quart milk
¼ tsp. salt

Beat eggs until light colored. Add sugar and salt gradually. Continue beating until thick and creamy. Add cream, milk and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Chill and churn-freeze according to your freezer's directions. Makes a gallon.
